

We do not live by bread alone

Words & music: © A. Baer, 2013-4, arr. S. Porter

meter: 88D 86D

We do not live by bread a-lone, or pros-per from the Why wor-ry for the clothes we'll wear, or dwell on per-ils
Some things en-dure and some re-veal what rust de-stroys or things we own. Yet we can live a-bun-dant-ly when our com- pass - ion that aren't there? For when our fears are all we tend, we miss the fruit the thieves can steal. But in our hearts our trea-sures lie; what mat-ters most, we sets us free to spread the boun-ty that we have to those who need our care.

Spir-it sends. With pa-tience, love and faith-ful-ness our peace and hope shall grow, can-not buy. In mu-sic, laugh-ter, time with friends; in na-ture's beau-ty too,

For by its fruit a tree is known; let love be what we bear.
like streams that flow in des-ert sands, like blos-soms in the snow.
let sim-ple joys that we can share en-rich our whole lives through.